

What is the AHPs Listen platform and how can I get involved?

Allied Health Professionals can help make sure people get the right support at the right time.

The AHPsListen team are making a new plan for Allied Health Professionals for the next five years. This is called a strategy.

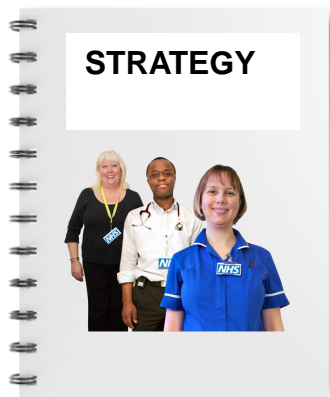

We want to hear from everyone about how they would like to experience health and social care so we can write the best plan for AHPs

You can have your say by visiting our online conversation and responding to five questions.

Your responses to the questions will not look like they were made by you- they will be anonymous.

We will use your ideas and experiences to write a report on what is important for AHPs and AHP services over the next five years.

The report will be published in 2022